Research Questions

1. What is the nature and effectiveness of community-based anti-poverty organizing in the GTA?
2. What is the nature and effectiveness of popular education/informal learning in supporting community-based anti-poverty organizing in the GTA?
3. How can community-based anti-poverty organizing efforts in the GTA engage with, support and learn from one another?

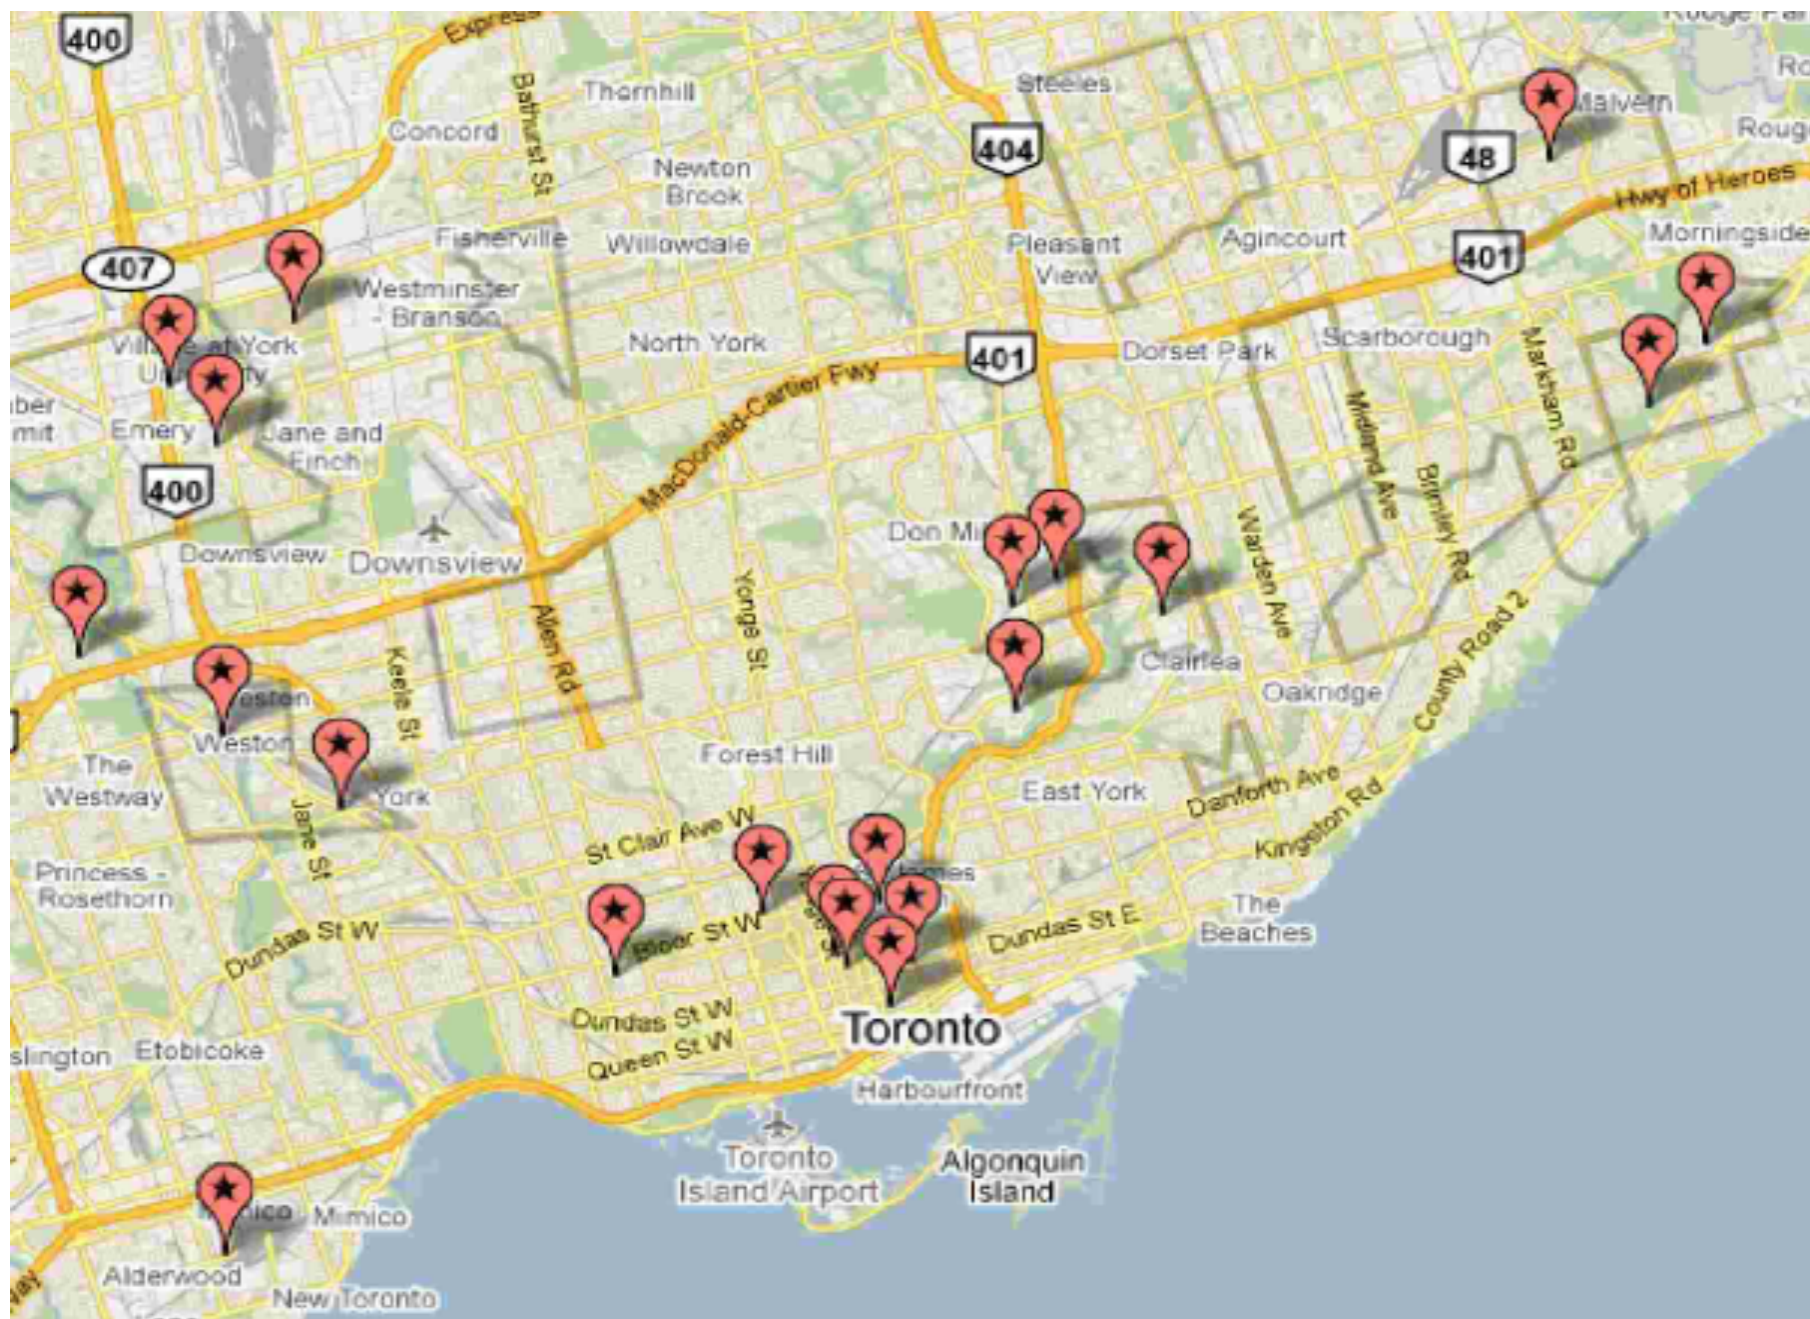

General Methodology: Participation Action Research as Community based research

- “as a collaborative approach to research that equitably involves all partners in the research process and recognizes the unique strengths that each brings.”
- “...begins with a research topic of importance to the community with the aim of combining knowledge and action for social change”

Israel et al, 1998

APCOL City Wide Anti-Poverty Survey

Low Income in Toronto, 2001

City Wide Survey

- APCOL has undertaken a two-phase face-to-face survey, in Years 2 (2010-2011) and repeated in 5 (2013-2014).
- The survey is based on purposive sampling in identified neighbourhoods in the City of Toronto.
- These samples ($n = 8 \times 50 = 400$ people) draw from some (but not exclusively) case study neighbourhoods

Survey sample

- Sample of respondents 18 years and over and not less than 50 respondents in each of the eight select neighbourhood for a total of 400 Citywide
- The survey sample was developed through contacts from partner anti-poverty campaign organizations.
- To address equity issues relating to differential experiences of poverty, we sought to have a proportion of the surveys in the first languages of Spanish, Chinese, Urdu and Arabic speaking residents
- Non-participants and past participants were randomly drawn from the respective neighbourhoods using ‘snowballing’.

Community Researcher Training Program

- Training includes:
 - General introductions and scan of neighbourhood issues
 - Overview of the APCOL project
 - Review interview guide
 - Overview of the Questionnaire
 - Practicing interviewing
 - Discussion of questions arising
 - Review specific sections of the
 - Planning
 - Workplan development

Benefits: Policy implications

- The resulting data will establish benchmarks for estimating:
 - changes in poverty conditions
 - community-based anti-poverty organizing
 - popular education/informal learning activity
- Policy and advocacy relevant research
- Building research capacity in communities
